

January 6, 2023

Lenovo's Commitment to RoHS

Lenovo is committed to protecting the environment. An important priority for Lenovo was the implementation of RoHS (Restriction of Hazardous Substances) requirements globally. Lenovo has met all the RoHS requirements currently in effect, most well in advance of their implementation dates.

- Lenovo Products meet the requirement of Directive 2011/65/EC on the restriction of the use of the certain hazardous substances in electrical and electronic equipment (RoHS 2). Lenovo products sold in the European Union, from July 21, 2019, meet the requirement of Commission Delegated Directive (EU 2015/863) and Directive (EU) 2017/2102 amending Directive 2011/65/EU.
- Lenovo products sold in Turkey, on or after June 1, 2009, meet the requirements of the former Republic of Turkey Restriction of Hazardous Substances legislation from May 30, 2008 and the Control of Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment Regulations from May 22, 2012, (Turkey RoHS).
- Lenovo products sold in Ukraine, on or after March 10, 2017, meet the requirements of the Technical Regulation on the Restriction of the Use of Certain Hazardous Substances in electrical and Electronic Equipment enforced by the Ukrainian Cabinet of Ministers, Resolution No. 139 dated March 10, 2017, (Ukraine RoHS).
- Lenovo products sold in California, on or after January 1, 2007, meet the substance restrictions requirements of Electronic Waste Recycling Act of 2003 (SB 20) (California's RoHS), Health and Safety Code sections 25214.9-25214.10.2 (California's RoHS Law) and California Code of Regulations, title 22, section 66260.202 (California's RoHS regulations).
- Lenovo products sold to the New York City government, on or after March 1, 2007, meet the requirements of the City's environmental preferred purchasing regulations. Additionally, Lenovo products comply with other US RoHS restrictions as applicable in the States including, but not limited to: NJ, IL, IN, MN, RI, WI.
- Lenovo products sold in Japan, on or after July 1, 2006, meet the requirements of J-Moss, (Japan RoHS).
- Lenovo products sold in South Korea, on or after January 1, 2008, meet the requirements of South Korea's equivalent of EU RoHS, WEEE and End of Life Vehicle (ELV) Directives, (South Korea RoHS).
- Lenovo products sold in India, on or after October 1, 2016, meet the requirements of the India E-Waste (Management) Rules 2016, (India RoHS).
- Lenovo products sold in Vietnam, on or after December 1, 2012, meet the requirements of the Vietnam Circular 30/2011/TT-BCT, (Vietnam RoHS).

- Lenovo products sold in Thailand, on or after February 2, 2009, meet the requirements of Restriction of the use of Hazardous Substances, TIS 2368-2551, 2008, (Thailand RoHS).
- Lenovo products sold in the People's Republic of China, on or after July 1, 2016, meet the requirements of Management Methods for the Restriction of the Use of Hazardous Substances in Electrical and Electronic Products, (China RoHS 2).
- Lenovo products sold in Singapore, on or after June 1, 2017, meet the requirements of Environmental Protection and Management Act as amended by Singapore Order No. S 263/2016, (Singapore-RoHS).
- Lenovo products sold in Taiwan, on or after July 1, 2017, meet the requirements of CNS 15663-2013 Guidance to reduction of the restricted chemical substances in electrical and electronic equipment, (Taiwan RoHS).
- Lenovo products sold in United Arab Emirates (U.A.E.), on or after January 1, 2018, meet the requirement of U.A.E. Regulation No. 10, 2017 – Restriction on the Use of Hazardous Substances in Electrical and Electronic Devices, (UAE RoHS).

Lenovo complies with RoHS requirements in each geography and country in which our products are sold worldwide.

Robert J. Taylor
Director - Environmental, Sustainability and Compliance